LETTERS from a FARMER in PENNSYLVANIA, to the Inhabitants of the BRITISH COLONIES.

LETTER VII.

My dear Countrymen,

THIS Letter is intended more particularly for ſuch of you, whoſe employments in life may have prevented your attending to the conſideration of ſome points, that are of great and public importance; for many ſuch perſons there muſt be even in theſe colonies, where the inhabitants in general are more intelligent than any other people whatever, as has been remarked by ſtrangers, and it ſeems with reaſon.

Some of you, perhaps, filled as I know your breaſts are with loyalty to our moſt excellent prince, and with love to our dear mother country, may feel yourſelves inclined, by the affections of your hearts, to approve every action of thoſe whom you ſo much venerate and eſteem.

A prejudice thus flowing from goodneſs of diſpoſition, is amiable indeed, I wiſh it could be indulged without danger. Did I think this poſſible, the error ſhould have been adopted, and not oppoſed by me. But in truth, all men are ſubject to the paſſions and frailties of nature; and therefore whatever regard we entertain for the perſons of thoſe who govern us, we ſhould always remember that their conduct as rulers may be influenced by human infirmities.

When any laws injurious to theſe colonies are paſt, we cannot with the leaſt propriety ſuppoſe that any injury was intended us by his majeſty, or the lords. For the aſſent of the crown and peers to laws, ſeems as far as I am able to judge, to have been veſted in them, more for their own ſecurity than for any other purpoſe. On the other hand, it is the particular buſineſs of the people to enquire and diſcover what regulations are uſeful for themſelves, and to digeſt and preſent them in the form of bills to the other orders, to have them enacted into laws. Where theſe laws are to bind themſelves, it may be expected, that the houſe of commons will very carefully conſider them; but when they are making laws that are not deſigned to bind themſelves, we cannot imagine that their deliberations will be as * cautious and ſcrupulous as in their own caſe.

I am told, that there is wonderful addreſs frequently uſed in carrying points in the houſe of commons, by perſons experienced in theſe affairs—That opportunities are watched, and ſometimes votes are paſt, that if all the members had been preſent, would have been rejected by a great majority.

Certain it is, that when a powerful and artful man has determined on any meaſure againſt theſe colonies, he has always ſucceeded in his attempt. Perhaps therefore it will be proper for us, whenever any oppreſſive act affecting us is paſt, to attribute it to the inattention of the members of the houſe of commons, and to the malevolence or ambition of ſome factious great man, rather than to any other cauſe.

Now I do verily believe, that the late act of parliament impoſing duties on paper, &c. was formed by Mr. Grenville and his party, becauſe it is evidently a part of that plan, by which he endeavoured to render himſelf popular at home; and I do alſo believe, that not one half of the members of the houſe of commons, even of thoſe who heard it read, did perceive how deſtructive it was to American freedom.

For this reaſon, as it is uſual in Great-Britain, to conſider the King's ſpeech, as the ſpeech of the miniſtry. It may be right here to conſider this act, as the act of a party. Perhaps I ſhould ſpeak more properly, if I was to uſe any other term.

There are two ways of laying taxes. One is, by impoſing a certain ſum, on particular kinds of property, to be paid by the uſer or conſumer, or by rateing the perſon at a certain ſum; the other is, by impoſing a certain ſum on particular kinds of property to be paid by the ſeller.

When a man pays the firſt ſort of tax, he knows with certainty, that he pays ſo much money for a tax. The conſideration for which he pays it is remote, and it may be does not occur to him. He is ſenſible too, that he is commanded and obliged to pay it as a tax; and therefore people are apt to be diſpleaſed with this ſort of tax.

The other ſort of tax is ſubmitted to in a very different manner. The purchaſer of any article very ſeldom reflects that the ſeller raiſes his price, ſo as to indemnify him for the tax he has paid. He knows the prices of things are continually fluctuating, and if he thinks about the tax, he thinks at the ſame time, in all probability, that he might have paid as much, if the article he buys had not been taxed. He gets ſomething viſible and agreeable for his money, and tax and price are ſo confounded together, that he cannot ſeparate or does not chuſe to take the trouble of ſeparating them.

This mode of taxation therefore is the mode ſuited to arbitrary and oppreſſive governments. The love of liberty is ſo natural to the human heart, that unfeeling tyrants think themſelves obliged to accommodate their ſchemes as much as they can to the appearance of juſtice and reaſon, and to deceive thoſe whom they reſolve to deſtroy or oppreſs, by preſenting to them a miſerable picture of freedom, when the ineſtimable original is loſt.

This policy did not eſcape the cruel and rapacious NERO. That monſter, apprehenſive that his crimes might endanger his authority and life, thought proper to do ſome popular acts to ſecure the obedience of his ſubjects. "Among other things," ſays Tacitus, "he remitted the twenty-fifth "part of the price on the ſale of ſlaves, but rather in ſhew "than reality; for the ſeller being ordered to pay it, it be-"came a part of the price to the buyer."†

This is the reflection of the judicious hiſtorian; but the deluded people gave their infamous Emperor full credit for his falſe generoſity. Other nations have been treated in the ſame manner the Romans were. The honeſt, induſtrious Germans, who are ſettled in different parts of this continent, can inform us, that it was this ſort of tax, that drove them from their native land to our woods, at that time the ſeats of perfect and undiſturbed freedom.

Their princes inflamed by the luſt of power and the luſt of avarice, two furies that the more they are gorged the more hungry they grow, tranſgreſſed the bounds they ought, in regard to themſelves, to have obſerved. To keep up the deception in the minds of ſubjects, "there muſt be," ſays ‡ a very learned author, "ſome proportion between the impoſt and the values of the commodity; wherefore there ought not to be an exceſſive duty upon merchandizes of little value. There are countries in which the duties exceeds ſeventeen or eighteen times the value of the commodity. In this caſe the prince removes the illuſion. His ſubjects plainly ſee they are dealt with in an unreaſonable manner, which renders them moſt exquiſitely ſenſible of their ſlaviſh ſituation."

From hence it appears that ſubjects may be ground down into miſery, by this ſort of taxation as well as by the other. They will be as much impoveriſhed, if their money is taken from them in this way as in the other: and that it will be taken, may be more evident, by attending to a few more conſiderations.

The merchant or importer who pays the duty at firſt, will not conſent to be ſo much money out of pocket. He therefore proportionably raiſes the price of his goods. It may then be ſaid to be a conteſt between him and the perſon offering to buy, who ſhall loſe the duty. This muſt be decided by the nature of the commodities, and the purchaſers demand for them. If they are mere luxuries, he is at liberty to do as he pleaſes, and if he buys, he does it voluntarily: But if they are abſolute neceſſaries, or conveniencies which uſe and cuſtom have made requiſite for the comfort of life, and which he is not permitted by the power impoſing the duty, to get elſewhere, there the ſeller has a plain advantage, and the buyer muſt pay the duty. In fact, the ſeller is nothing leſs than a collector of tax for the power that impoſed it. If theſe duties then are extended to the neceſſaries and conveniences of life in general, and enormouſly increaſed, the people muſt at length become indeed "moſt exquiſitely ſenſible of their ſlaviſh ſituation."——Their happineſs therefore entirely depends on the moderation of thoſe who have authority to impoſe the duties.

I ſhall now apply theſe obſervations, to the late act of parliament. Certain duties are thereby impoſed on paper and glaſs, imported into theſe colonies. By the laws of Great-Britain, we are prohibited to get theſe articles from any other part of the world. We cannot at preſent, nor for many years to come, though we ſhould apply ourſelves to

* Many remarkable inſtances might be produced of the extraordinary inattention with which bills of great importance, concerning theſe colonies have paſſed in parliament; which is owing, as it is ſuppoſed, to the bills being brought in by the perſons who have points to carry, ſo artfully framed, that it is not eaſy for the members in general, in the haſte of buſineſs, to diſcover their tendency.

The following inſtances ſhew the truth of this remark. When Mr. Grenville, in the violence of reformation formed the 4th George III. chap. 15th, for regulating the American trade, the word "Ireland" was dropt in the clauſe relating to our iron and lumber, ſo that we could ſend theſe articles to no other part of Europe, but to Great-Britain. This was ſo unreaſonable a reſtriction, and ſo contrary to the ſentiments of the legiſlature, for many years before, that it is ſurprizing it ſhould not have been taken notice of in the houſe. However the bill paſſed into a law. But when the matter was explained, this reſtriction was taken off by a ſubſequent act.

I cannot poſitively ſay, how long after the taking off this reſtriction, as I have not the acts; but I think in leſs than eighteen months another act of parliament paſſed, in which the word "Ireland," was left out as it had been before. The matter being a ſecond time explained, was a ſecond time regulated.

Now if it be conſidered, that the omiſſion mentioned ſtruck off, with ONE word, ſo very great part of our trade, it muſt appear remarkable; and equally ſo is the method by which rice became an enumerated commodity, and therefore could be carried to Great-Britain only.

"The enumeration was obtained, (ſays Mr. Gee ) by one* Cole, a Captain of a ſhip, employed by a company then trading to Carolina; for ſeveral ſhips going from England thither and purchaſing rice for Portugal, prevented the aforeſaid Captain of a loading. Upon his coming home, he poſſeſſed one Mr. Lowndes, a member of parliament (who was very frequently employed in preparing bills) with an opinion, that carrying rice directly to Portugal was a prejudice to the trade of England, and PRIVATELY got a clauſe into an act to make it an enumerated commodity; by which means he ſecured a freight to himſelf. But the conſequence proved A VAST LOSS TO THE NATION."

I find that this clauſe "PRIVATELY got into an act," for the benefit of Captain Cole, to the "VAST LOSS OF THE NATION, is fixed into the 3d and 4th Anne, chap. 5, intituled, "An Act for granting to her Majeſty a further ſubſidy on "wines and merchandizes imported," with which it has no more connection than with 34th Edward I. 34th and 35th of Henry VIII. and the 25th of Charles II. which provide that no perſon ſhall be taxed but by himſelf or his repreſentative.

‡ Monteſquieu, Spirit of Laws, b. 23. chap. 8.

[illegible] with the utmoſt induſtry, make enough ourſelves for our own uſe. That paper and glaſs are not only convenient, but abſolutely neceſſary for us, I imagine very few will contend. Some perhaps who think mankind grew wicked and luxurious, as ſoon as they found out another way of communicating their ſentiments than by ſpeech, and another way of dwelling than in caves, may advance ſo whimſical an opinion. But I preſume no body will take the unneceſſary trouble of refuting them.

From theſe remarks I think it evident, that we muſt uſe paper and glaſs; that what we uſe, muſt be Britiſh; and that we muſt pay the duties impoſed, unleſs thoſe who ſell thoſe articles, are ſo generous as to make us preſents of the duties they pay.

Some perſons may think this act of no conſequence, becauſe the duties are ſo ſmall. A fatal error. That is the very circumſtance moſt alarming to me. For I am convinced that the authors of this law would never have obtained an act to raiſe ſo trifling a ſum, as it muſt do, had they not intended by it to eſtabliſh a precedent for future uſe. To conſole ourſelves with the ſmalneſs of the duties, is to walk deliberately into the ſnare that is ſet for us, praiſing the neatneſs of the workmanſhip. Suppoſe the duties impoſed by the late act could be paid by theſe diſtreſt colonies with the utmoſt eaſe, and that the purpoſes to which they are to be applied, are the moſt reaſonable and equitable that can be conceived, the contrary of which I hope to demonſtrate before theſe letters are concluded, yet even in ſuch a ſuppoſed caſe, theſe colonies ought to regard the act with abhorrence. For who are a free people? Not thoſe, over whom government is reaſonably and equitably exerciſed, but thoſe, who live under a government ſo conſtitutionally checked and controuled, that proper proviſion is made againſt its being otherwiſe exerciſed. The late act is founded on the deſtruction of this conſtitutional ſecurity.

If the parliament have a right to lay a duty of four ſhillings and eight pence on a hundred weight of glaſs or a ream of paper, they have a right to lay a duty of any other ſum on either. They may raiſe the duty, as the author before quoted ſays has been done in ſome countries, till it "exceeds ſeventeen or eighteen times the value of the commodity." In ſhort if they have a right to levy a tax of one penny upon us, they have a right to levy a million upon us: For where does their right ſtop? At any given number of pence, ſhillings or pounds? To attempt to limit their right, after granting it to exiſt at all, is as contrary to reaſon, as granting it to exiſt at all is contrary to juſtice. If they have any right to tax us, then whether our own money ſhall continue in our own pockets or not, depends no longer on us, but on them. "There is nothing which we can call our own"; or to uſe the words of Mr. Locke,—"WHAT PROPERTY HAVE WE IN THAT, WHICH ANOTHER MAY, BY RIGHT, TAKE, WHEN HE PLEASES, TO HIMSELF."

Theſe duties which will inevitably be levied upon us—which are now levying upon us—are expreſſly laid FOR THE SOLE PURPOSE OF TAKING MONEY. This is the true definition of "taxes." They are therefore taxes. This money is to be taken from us. We are therefore taxed. Thoſe who are taxed without their own conſent, given by themſelves or their repreſentatives, are ſlaves. We are taxed without our own conſent, given by ourſelves or our repreſentatives. We are therefore SLAVES.

"Miſerable vulgus."

"It is my opinion, that this kingdom has no right to lay A TAX upon the colonies—The Americans are the SONS not the BASTARDS of England*——The diſtinction between* legiſlation and taxation is eſſentially neceſſary to liberty——The COMMONS of America, repreſented in their ſeveral aſſemblies, have ever been in poſſeſſion of this their conſtitutional right of GIVING AND GRANTING THEIR OWN MONEY. They would have been SLAVES if they had not enjoyed it. The idea of a virtual repreſentation of America, in this houſe, is the moſt contemptable idea that ever entered into the head of man. It does not deſerve a ſerious refutation."

Mr. Pitt's ſpeech on the Stamp-Act.

That great and excellent man, Lord Cumbden, maintains the ſame opinion. His ſpeech, in the houſe of peers, on the declaratory bill of the ſovereignty of Great-Britain over the colonies, has lately appeared in our papers. The following extracts ſo perfectly agree with and confirm the ſentiments avowed in theſe letters, that it is hoped the inſerting them in this note will be excuſed.

"As the affair is of the utmoſt importance, and in its conſequences may involve the fate of kingdoms, I took the ſtricteſt review of my arguments: I re-examined all my authorities; fully determined, if I found myſelf miſtaken, publickly to own my miſtake, and give up my opinion: But my ſtarches have more and more convinced me, that the Britiſh parliament have NO RIGHT TO TAX the Americans —Nor is the doctrine new; it is as old as the conſtitution; it grew up with it, indeed it is its ſupport. TAXATION and REPRESENTATION are inſeparably united. GOD hath joined them: No Britiſh parliament can ſeparate them; to endeavour to do it, is to ſtab our vitals.

"*My poſition is this—I repeat it—I will maintain it to my laſt hour,—*TAXATION and REPRESENTATION are inſeparable.—This poſition is founded on the laws of nature; it is more, it is itſelf AN ETERNAL LAW OF NATURE; for whatever is a man's own, is abſolutely his own; NO MAN HATH A RIGHT TO TAKE IT FROM HIM WITHOUT HIS CONSENT, either expreſſed by himſelf or repreſentative; whoever attempts to do it, attempts an injury; WHOEVER DOES IT, COMMITTS A ROBBERY; HE THROWS DOWN THE DISTINCTION BETWEEN LIBERTY AND SLAVERY: There is not a blade of graſs, in the moſt obſcure corner of the kingdom, which is not, which was not repreſented ſince the conſtitution began: There is not a blade of graſs, which, when taxed, was not taxed by the conſent of the proprietor. The forefathers of the Americans did not leave their native country, and ſubject themſelves to every danger and diſtreſs, TO BE REDUCED TO A STATE OF SLAVERY. They did not give up their rights; they looked forwards to poſterity, and not for CHAINS, from their mother country. By her they expect to be defended in the poſſeſſion of their property; and not to be deprived of it: For ſhould the preſent power continue, THERE IS NOTHING WHICH THEY CAN CALL THEIR OWN, &c. to uſe the words of Mr. Locke, WHAT PROPERTY HAVE THEY IN THAT, WHICH ANOTHER MAY, BY RIGHT, TAKE, WHEN HE PLEASES, TO HIMSELF."

It is impoſſible to read this ſpeech and Mr. Pitt's, and not be charmed with the generous zeal for the rights of mankind, that glows in every ſentence. Theſe great and good men, animated by the ſacred ſubject they ſpeak upon, ſeem to riſe above all the former glorious exertions of their abilities, and foreigner might be tempted to think they are Americans, offering with all the ardour of patriotiſm, and all the anxiety of apprehenſion, the cauſe of their native land, and not Britons ſtriving to ſtop their miſtaken countrymen from oppreſſing others. Their reaſoning is not only juſt; it is, as Mr. Hume ſays of the eloquence of Demoſthenes, "vehement." It is diſdain, anger, boldneſs, freedom involved in a continual ſtream of argument."

ROME, NOVEMBER 23.

THE Ambaſſador from the republic of Venice at this court, has received, by the laſt courier, the following news: In the province of Montenero, which is tributary to the Grand Signor, and which borders upon the Venetian Dalmatia, a foreigner, who has gone by the name of Stefano, and for ſome time exerciſed the profeſſion of a phyſician in that province, has publickly declared himſelf to be the Czar Peter III. pretending that the report of his death was deſignedly ſpread at the time, but that he had found means to eſcape from his priſon. Under favour of this name, and ſeconded by the Caloyers, ſchiſmatick Greek monks, who have great influence over the inhabitants, he has got himſelf publickly ackowledged for the Czar, not only by the people, but likewiſe by the biſhop and all the other orders; ſo that he is already at the head of ſome thouſand ſoldiers. It is reckoned, that in the province of Montenero, there are 30,000 men able to bear arms; and his ſituation is very advantageous, becauſe he is incloſed by inacceſſible mountains. The people there are extremely attached to the name of Moſcovite, as well on account of the conformity of their religion, as becauſe the ſovereigns of Ruſſia have always employed the neceſſary means to maintain a great influence amongſt them. The pretended Peter III. is ſaid to be a man of ſpirit, a fine figure, and ſeems to abound in money, which he diſtributes with profuſion to his ſoldiers. It is added, that the republic of Venice, fearing the conſequences of this enterprize, has ſent orders for the immediate march of all the infantry and other troops from Dalmatia to Cataro, a town of that province, which is not above a mile from Montenero.

The changes in the miniſtry expected to take place, it is now ſaid, will be as follows:

Lord Gower, preſident of the council, in the room of Lord Northington, upon his Lordſhip's deſire to reſign; Lord Weymouth, Secretary of State for the northern department, in the room of General Conway; Lord Shelburne to continue Secretary for the ſouthern department, but to give up the American buſineſs; Lord Hillſborough to be made Secretary of State for the colonies; Lord Sandwich to ſucceed Lord Hillſborough in the poſt-office.

BOSTON, February 1. Robert Irving, Eſq; inſpector of imports and exports for America, Lieut. Haſwell, late of the Fortune ſloop of war, Capt. Ball of this place, and a number of Captains belonging to Portſmouth in New-Hampſhire, came paſſengers with Captain Stevens, together with a number of weavers, wool-combers, clothiers, fullers, and other manufacturers and mechanicks.

NEW-YORK, January 25. We are told, that ſince the beginning of laſt month, ſixty veſſels or more, have been aſhore and loſt between this place and Boſton.

February 11. On Saturday laſt, his Excellency the Governor, by and with the Advice and Conſent of his Majeſty's Council, diſſolved the General Aſſembly of this Province, after a Seſſion of 80 Days, and having ſubſiſted ſeven Years (the Time limited by Law) ſince their Election.

PHILADELPHIA, February 18. Captain Carliſle, from St. Croix, informs, that a Schooner bound from Charles-Town, South-Carolina, for Ireland, having met with bad weather, in which ſhe ſprung a leak, had put in there.

Extract of a Letter from Lancaſter, February 5, 1768.

"The Inhabitants on our Frontiers, are much afraid of an Indian War. I ſaw a Man this Day, who told me, that ſome Indians came to the Houſe of his Neighbour, at the Mouth of Juniata, and told him, that it would be beſt for the Inhabitants thereabouts to fly that Country, unleſs they choſe to be ſcalped, as they (the Indians) in leſs than two Moons, as they expreſſed it, would come among them there for that Purpoſe. The ſame Man further told me, that he had traded amongſt the Indians for many Years, and not a Winter paſſed in that Time, in which Multitudes of them were not ſeen amongſt the White People, which was not the Caſe this Winter, and which he ſays is an infallible Sign of an Indian War. He likewiſe ſaid, that in Conſequence of the Declaration of the Indians, about 150 of the Frontier Inhabitants are come, and coming to this Side of the Suſquehanna, with all their Houſhold Goods and Cattle. This is an undoubted Truth."

CHARLES-TOWN, MARCH 1.

ON Monday the 22d ult. the Honourable the Commons Houſe of Aſſembly of this Province met here according to Prorogation, and is now ſitting for the Diſpatch of Buſineſs.

Attakullakulla and the other Cherokee Chiefs, who went to New-York in December laſt, after ſtaying ſome Time with General Gage, were ſent by his Excellency to Sir William Johnſon, Superintendant of Indian Affairs for the Northern Diſtrict, and will remain ſome Months at Johnſon-Hall, as the Chiefs of the Six Nations cannot attend the propoſed Congreſs with them before ſome Time in this Month or April.

Laſt Wedneſday his Majeſty's Ship Bonetta, Captain Wallace, and the Chaleurs Cutter, Captain Laughearne, ſailed on a Cruize.

Friday laſt the Grantham Packet arrived here from Penſacola: Captain Siddal, with the Maſter and Surgeon, all died in their Paſſage from Jamaica to Penſacola.

Letters from Penſacola adviſe, that a Party of 32 Choctaw Indians, had done conſiderable Damage to the Settlers at Beloxy; ſeveral of whom having been forced to abandon their Plantations. A ſtrong Body of Northern Indians fell upon a hunting Party of Chickeſaws, whom they overpowered, by Superiority of Numbers, and killed 18 of them. This is the moſt ſevere Stroke thoſe faithful Allies of Great-Britain have met with for many Years paſt. They ſtrongly ſuſpect that ſeveral Frenchmen were among the Enemy.

DIED.] The Honourable CHARLES SHINNER, Eſq; late Chief-Juſtice of this Province, and a Member of his Majeſty's Honourable Council.

LONDON, DECEMBER 5.

THERE are many different accounts from Naples, as well as other parts of Italy, of a moſt dreadful inſurrection at Palermo, the capital of Sicily, where the populace, after having murdered the guard of the Viceroy, and made him priſoner, hanged up ſeveral of the council, and committed many other enormous outrages. As ſoon as this news reached Naples, the government diſpatched two men of war and ſome frigates, with troops, to bring the rebels to reaſon.

We hear that 16000 men will be employed for ſea ſervice for the year 1768.

DECEMBER 8. They write from Genoa, that three regiments of infantry, under the command of general Matra, were preparing to embark for Corſica; and it was ſaid an attempt would be made to recover Capraia from the diſcontents.

Letters from Conſtantinople adviſe, that a dangerous inſurrection had lately happened there. High diſputes began in the Divan; but on what ſubject is not poſitively mentioned: the Janiſſaries and mob immediately took part in the diſpute, and a great deal of blood was ſpilt on the occaſion before it could be quelled.

DECEMBER 12. The national debt of Ireland was on the 24th of laſt March, no leſs than 581,964 l. 3*s. and* 4*d. How it is to be reduced, time only can diſcover; but how it is to be enhanced will eaſily ſtrike the imagination of the reader.*

In conſequence of the act for opening our ports to the importation of foreign corn, we are well aſſured, that wheat will be reduced to 40*s. a quarter before Chriſtmas.*

A change in the miniſtry, 'tis ſaid, will ſoon take place. Lord Sandwich is talked of to ſucceed Mr. Conway as ſecretary of ſtate; Lord Gower to be lord chamberlain; and Mr. Rigby paymaſter of the forces.

Thurſday John Wilkes, Eſq; who a few days ſince arrived with his daughter from France, ſet out again for that kingdom, having, it is ſaid, received an intimation, that his preſence here might probably be attended with ſome diſagreeable conſequences to himſelf.

'Tis ſaid, that from the ſpirited remonſtrances of our ambaſſador at the court of Spain, the Spaniards have agreed to pay immediately the ranſom bills for the conqueſt of Manilla, after deducting a third for the damage done by our troops after the capitulation.

We are credibly informed, that a bill is intended to be brought into parliament this ſeſſions, for preventing the uniting and monopolizing of farms throughout England and Wales.

'Tis ſaid, that the people of a ſiſter nation are no ways pleaſed with a late promotion in the law; and we are told, that the perſon advanced is not likely to find his ſeat a very comfortable one.

We are informed, that there has lately been diſcovered in one of our American colonies an almoſt inexhauſtible mine of ſalt-petre.

'Tis ſaid, the number of foreign veſſels trading through the Mediterranean with Britiſh paſſes is ſo great, that our conſuls in the various parts of that ſea, will be inſtructed to confiſcate them whenever they find an opportunity; and we are told, if the government of their reſpective reſidence ſhould obſtruct ſuch a meaſure, 'twill be conſidered as an act of hoſtility againſt the crown of England.

A morning paper ſays, that a perſon at the weſt end of the town, has by labour and great expence invented a chemical preparation, which being applied to iron or ſteel, will in the ſpace of one hour, or leſs, make it as malleable as to be cut with a knife or other inſtrument, without trouble.

DECEMBER 16. It is aſſerted, that the Britiſh exports to North America have this year fallen ſhort many thouſand pounds.

It is ſaid, that an act of grace will paſs next ſeſſions of parliament.

They write from Milan, that the government has juſt publiſhed an order for all the Monks to repair to their reſpective convents in twenty four hours, and not to quit them without freſh orders.

Extract of a letter from Leghorn, November 20.

"Our laſt advices from Corſica mention an approaching rupture between the Geneſe and Corſicans, on account of the former refuſing to evacuate the places ſtipulated in the treaty of peace, made by the mediation of France; and not granting to the latter independency and the liberty of governing themſelves: The Corſicans will not hearken to peace unleſs theſe two points are granted; ſo that this affair cannot be decided but by having recourſe to arms."

They write from Gibraltar, that the Sophia-Magdalena, a Daniſh tranſport, was arrived there laden with naval and ordnance ſtores for the ſervice of the Corſicans.

They write from Amſterdam, that ſignor Petruccio, a Corſican agent, is now in that city, employed in negociating a loan among the merchants, of a large ſum of money, for general Paoli.

A certain favourite bill, which was lately carried in a certain neighbouring nation, has, 'tis whiſpered, been already unanimouſly rejected by a certain illuſtrious aſſembly.

DECEMBER 17. We hear that a commiſſion is preparing to paſs the great ſeal, for appointing a new board of admiralty.

Yeſterday advice was received of the death of the right hon. the Earl of Rothes, commander in chief of his majeſty's forces in Ireland, and colonel of the third regiment of foot guards.

Eſtimates have been taken, and the charges will amount to, from Liverpool to Hull, £. 140,000, and the other cuts nearly the ſame in proportion to their diſtance. That part from Liverpool to Hull, and Wolver-Hampton to Derby is already begun, and the neceſſary ſums of money ſubſcribed for that, and almoſt all the cuts I have mentioned."
